ELO helps Youth Off The Streets

Sidney, 02 August 2011 - Youth Off The Streets (YOTS) a community organisation supporting significantly disadvantaged young people, has selected ELO Digital Office to provide their Document and Records Management Solution. After a rigorous selection process, it was ELO Digital that prevailed over other systems, not only through attractive pricing but through ease of use and future proof scalability.

ELO Digital delivered a system that provided YOTS with a Document Management and Records Management solution enhancing internal governance and a better compliance with regulatory requirements. "After implementing a strategic planning process YOTS identified a need to meet various accreditation requirements and improve our organisational efficiency and effectiveness." Richard Hanson said.

Richard, Strategic ITC Manager, Youth Off The Streets adds: "We have many important documents such as client files, funding contracts and financial records that need to be securely stored yet easily accessible. ELO Digital was able to deliver a user friendly, cost efficient solution which met all the requirements of a non-for-profit organisation. They [ELO] were patient, professional and provided the product support we needed, when we needed it!"

Rainer Krause, ELO's Australian Managing Director comments: "Youth Off The Streets has been a great client and partner since we've won the tender. Due to the nature of the organisation it was imperative to provide an easy to use system while guaranteeing compliance and confidentiality."

PRESS RELEASE

According to YOTS the ELOprofessional software provides an all-round solution that delivers better efficiencies in Records Management, Workflows, Document Management, Knowledge Management, Business Process Management and remote information access.

"From August 2011 we'll be progressively rolling out the new system division by division and envisage a complete transition by late 2011." Richard Hanson said. "Our experience with ELO Digital has been very positive and we look forward to using the new system across the organisation very soon."

Since introduction into the Australian market ELO solutions have been chosen by many industries and organisations. "With clients such as mining companies, airlines, waste management companies, local and federal Governments agencies ELO has already become the natural choice for many horizontals and verticals. But with having Youth Off The Streets as a client we've been particularly proud to deliver a complete solution in the non for profit area supporting their good cause." Rainer concludes.
